Review and Outlook

- Yields on treasury bills fell down by 106bps on average over the month from 12.78% as at 30 April 2019 to 11.71% as at 31 May. The decrease was pronounced across the various maturities with 1M and 12M yields falling by 114bps and 113bps respectively. Commercial Papers yielded 12.39% on 31 May, vs. 11.53% yield on T-Bills with similar maturities on the same day.
- The May 2019 T-bill position represents the second consecutive month of decline after a month of increase, from an average of 12.88% as at 31 March 2019. Inflation figures for April 2019 were released during the month, showing an increase in YoY headline inflation to 11.37% from 11.25% in March, driven by food inflation as core inflation actually declined. We think low yields will persist in the short term, reflecting lower monetary policy rate and high demand for fixed income.

Review and Outlook

- The NSE All Share Index gained 6.55% in May 2019, closing at 31,069.37 points from 29,159.74 at the start of the month. The NSE 30 Index (30) however lost 1.92%, reflecting the true market performance. The increase in the ASI was driven by the listing and appreciation of MTN Nigeria. All other sectors lost over 5% in the month, with the exception of the insurance sector which lost only 1.2%.
- The downward trend which started in mid February 2019 continued till the first half of May 2019, but was reversed by the listing-by-introduction of 20.35 billion shares of MTN at N90. This made MTN the second largest company on the NSE. MTN aside, we may still see a delayed return of investors to the equities market, as investors look out for improved fundamentals and market supportive policies.

Disclaimer:

Investors should consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of the funds carefully before investing. This and other information are contained in the fund's prospectus and summary prospectus, if available, which may be obtained by contacting our representative. Please read them carefully before you invest or send money.

Performance reflects changes in unit prices, reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions. All periods longer than one year are annualised. A new or smaller Fund's performance may not represent how the Fund is expected to or may perform in the long-term. New Funds have limited operating histories for investors to evaluate and new and smaller Funds may not attract sufficient assets to achieve investment and trading efficiencies. A Fund may be forced to sell a comparatively large portion of its portfolio to meet significant unitholders redemptions for cash, or hold a comparatively large portion of its portfolio in cash due to significant units purchases for cash, in each case when the Fund otherwise would not seek to do so, which may adversely affect performance.

A word about risk: Investing in foreign denominated and/or domiciled securities may involve heightened risk due to currency fluctuations, and economic and political risks, which may be enhanced in emerging markets. The value of most bond funds and fixed income securities are impacted by changes in interest rates. Bonds and bond funds with longer durations tend to be more sensitive and more volatile than securities with shorter durations; bond prices generally fall as interest rates rise. Past rankings are no guarantee of future rankings.
